Workers' Comp. Representatives: The Industrial Commission Needs Your Picture!

COLUMBUS — Regular visitors to the Industrial Commission of Ohio's (IC) regional and district offices may now opt to have security ID badges issued to them for expedited electronic check-in. Once their badge picture is taken, they will be able to simply swipe and go!

"If a visitor decides not to get a security badge, a computer sits next to the security guard and visitors will type in their name to check-in, and then use the computer to checkout when their visit is over," IC Chairperson Jodie Taylor said.

An IC staff member will be visiting each IC office to take pictures of regular visitors, such as workers' compensation attorneys and representatives, over the next several weeks. ID badges will be sent to the visitors after they are developed.

A Representative Photo ID Form is available to download on the IC website. It is located under the “Agency News” section. Forms will also be available at each IC office on the day of the photograph session. Representatives must complete the form and give it to the photographer prior to being photographed. There is no cost to receive an ID badge.

If a representative cannot attend the scheduled photo session, an additional session will be scheduled at each IC office in the future.
